A woman with short brown hair, wearing a light blue button-down shirt and a dark blazer, is shown from the side and slightly from behind. She is holding her right neck with both hands, looking down with a pained expression. The background behind her is a purple polygonal pattern.

The two major complaints of people suffering from fibromyalgia are pain and fatigue, though many other symptoms are possible (insomnia, depression, brain fog, dizziness, headache, irritable bowel syndrome, etc.).

Because these symptoms are so diverse, fibromyalgia is frequently misdiagnosed and under recognized, therefore, fibromyalgia sufferers often receive inadequate support from medical professionals.

Our treatments aim to address the causes of illness and help the body get well - and remain well - in the long - term.
